Monday, June 8. 1719.

London, June 8.

On Saturday arrived the Mails due from Holland, Flanders, and France.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 13.

Petersbourg, May 19.

THE IR. Czarish Majesties are very much afflicted with the Death of the Czarowitz Peter Petrowitz, of whom they had conceived great Hopes: The Czar however bears this Loss with great Equanimity. We see here an Answer of the King of Poland to a Letter from the Czar, which being conceived in such Terms as imply Threatnings, is very unacceptable here, and looked upon almost as a Declaration of War: It is not yet known what Answer will be returned to it. M. Lilienstet not being as yet arrived at Aland, this Delay makes our Court believe the Swedes only design to gain Time, and therefore the warlike Preparations are carried on with all possible Diligence, to put to Sea with a numerous Fleet, and make a Diversion in Sweden. In the mean while, a Squadron consisting of 5 Men of War under the Command of Captain Gallowin, is sailed to ravage the Island of Oeland or Gothland, and to take all the Merchant men they meet going to Sweden. The River Neva is still frozen up, which in the Memory of Man was never so in such an advanced Season: This has hindered the Czar's Design of putting to Sea with his Fleet in the Middle of this Month. The Journey of Colonel Lewenhof and M. Bassowitz from Denmark to Sweden, seems to give some Umbrage to this Court, and the young Count Muslin Puskin has been sent to Denmark to divert that Court from separate Engagements with Sweden. The Czar seems so much what has happened to his Resident at Vienna, that he has ordered all the Jesuits who are in his Dominions forthwith to depart. The Dutchess of Mecklenburg set out 8 Days ago to meet the Duke her Husband.

Hambourg, June 9. Letters from Stockholm of the 21st inst say, that Provisions grow more scarce every Day, and that the common People suffer very much by it. A Russian Captain was arrived there from Aland, with a Letter from the Russian Plenipotentiaries, directed to the Queen and the Senate, to this Effect. That by Order of his Czarish Majesty they had repaired to the Place of Congress, to resume the Negotiations, but in case the Swedish Plenipotentiaries did not meet them there before the 1st of July, O. S. they had Orders to return to Petersbourg, and that so the Congress and all Negotiation should be entirely broke up. As the Captain could obtain no Answer, he went back again to Aland. Upon Information that the Czar makes great Preparations, divers Regiments of Horse are marching towards the Coast, where they with the Infantry are to form a Body of 12 or 16000 Men, who are to be reviewed by the Hereditary Prince of Hesse Cassel. Two Regiments which had received no Pay since the late King's Death, mutinied when they were ordered to march, and threw away their Arms, which obliged the Senate to order one Half of their Pay to be given them, to prevent the like Disorders among the other Forces. The Duke of Holstein has left Rostock, where he was entertained and defrayed by the Imperial Commissaries, and is gone to Dawitz in Mecklenburg, the Country Seat of M. Bassowitz, from whence he was to proceed to Day to Guttrow, to pay a Visit to the Dutchess Dowager his Grand Aunt, and from thence to Hanover, and he is to be defrayed wherever he passes in the Dominions of the King of Great Britain with his Retinue, among which are his Privy Counsellour M. Bassowitz, M. Holmer Counsellour of State, and M. Sandhagen Counsellour of Justice. According to Letters from Berlin, Mr. Whitworth has daily Conferences with the King of Prussia's Ministers, at which Count Gallofkin the Russian Ambassadour shews some Uneasiness. There is a Report from Jutland, that an Express from Copenhagen was come to Colding to the King of Denmark, with Advice, that the Queen was indisposed, upon which his Danish Majesty set out immediately for Copenhagen.

From the Amst. Gazette, dated June 13.

Amsterdam, June 13. Some Advices from Constantinople say, Prince Ragotsky has obtained Leave to live in a Village on the Coast of the Black Sea; the Porte continues to pay him 50 Crowns for the maintaining of him and his Retinue: Count Berezeni since his Arrival there, has obtained 800 Aspres a Day for his Subsistence. The Sultan makes great Preparations for solemnizing with great Pomp and Ceremony the Circumcision of his eldest Son, who is about 10 Years of Age. Those Letters add, that when the Death of the King of Sweden was known at Constantinople, the Grand Vizier called a Divan, in which they concerted new Measures.

From the Harlem Courant, dated June 13.

Vienna, May 31. On the 27th Instant the Turkish Aga had his Audience of Leave of Prince Eugene, who delivered to him an Answer to the Grand Vizier's Letter. The next Day he received several Presents, and those of his Retinue had Gold and Silver Medals given them, upon which he set out by Water on his Return to Turkey, accompanied by the Imperial Interpreter, M. Schmid, who goes to the Frontiers to meet the Turkish Ambassadour and conduct him hither. It is said that Aga has received a Resolution from the Imperial Court, with which probably the Porte will be satisfied, and that Count Virmond is to regulate the Points of Commerce, which are in Dispute, when he meets the Turkish Ambassadour, which it is believed, will be about Nissa.

From the Amst. Courant, dated June 13.

Stockholm, May 27. At length the free Trade to Livonia and Courland has been allowed to the Dutch and other Ships, so that for the future every one may Trade freely from hence and any other Parts. Six Men of War have put to Sea out of this Harbour, and 6 more remain here. At Carlscron 10 other Men of War are ready to put to Sea on the first Opportunity.

Hambourg, June 9. Letters from Wismar say, that the King of Great Britain in Answer to the Demand of the Magistrates of that Place, to be made a free Imperial City, has declared, that his Majesty out of his particular Favour to them, was willing to second their Desire, but that it was necessary first to know whether their Revenues were sufficient to support the Condition of a Member of the Empire, and that therefore the Magistrates were to send a State of their Income, in requiring which his Majesty had no other Design than to do them a Favour.

From the Hague Courant, dated June 14.

Amsterdam, June 12. We see here a Letter from Alicant dated May 8, which says that the King of Spain has restored to that Place and the whole Kingdom of Valentia, their ancient Privileges.

London, June 8.

By the Mail from France came certain Advice, That the Fleet which sailed with the last Reinforcement of Imperialists from Naples, landed those Troops with Artillery and Stores of all sorts at Patra. The Marquis de Lede upon the first Intelligence of their landing, drew off from before Mezzzo with such Precipitation that he left behind him 4000 Sacks of Meal, and a great Number of Sick whom by a Letter he recommended to the Compassion and Care of General Mercy. The Marquis de Lede retired with his Army towards Catania.
